CITY MAN IN ACTION

Hudsons of the Canadian Demon squadron took part in last night's attack and secured direct hits on some ships but details of their success are not immediately available.

The Canadians were led by Fil. Lt. Roy Christie, broad-shouldered North Bay, Ont. pilot, who until recently was an instructor at Brantford.

Other Canadians in Christie's crew were P.O. V. Johnson, Vancouver, observer, P.O. W. Garton, Winnipeg, air gunner, Fil. Sgt. W. A. Brown, Edmonton, wireless operator and air gunner.

The announcement added that the navy and the air force will discontinue recruiting in army training centres.

Reasons for the change in procedure, the departmental statement saad, is the expansion of army activities.

The statement continued: "The mobilization of the 7th and 8th division, and of special units, calls for a large increase in the number of men suitable to train as tradesmen. The army has particular need of men of this type just now in connection with mechanized and special army equipment."

(Authoritative sources in London denied the British troops had been completely withdrawn from Burma.)

that a gallant British force of some 5,000 strong has escaped from a menacing Japanese trap in Burma gives a welcome twist to reports from the Oriental battle area.

It had appeared there was little chance of escape for that remnant of the pitifully small force of British and Indian troops which fought as courageous a rearguard action all the way from Imphal to India as British history has ever known.

As it was, the survivors got away, like the men of the B.E.F. at Dunkerque, with only such fighting equipment as they could carry on their backs or in their hands.

STROME—News has been received of the death while on active service of Sgt.-Osk. John P. Hancock, 26, younger son of Mrs. Charles Hancock, joining the R.C.A.F. in December 1940. He received his wings in October 1941 and went overseas two months later. He was born in Strome, attended the public and high schools here and was active in all branches of sport.

A memorial service was held in St. Paul's church with Rev. Joseph Lee officiating. Mrs. Alvin Gordon played the organ and the Last Post was sounded by T. A. Barzigan. Surviving him besides his mother is his brother, Charles, also in the R.C.A.F. His father was a veteran of the last war and died in 1923.

Funeral For P. La France

At Wainwright
WAINWRIGHT—Funeral service for one of the earlier settlers of the Old Edge district, Philippe La France, took place in the Blessed Sacrament church with Rev. Father Mehan officiating.

Surviving him are his widow and seven children, Roland and Stella, Quebec; Emily and Ideal, Turner Valley; Carmen in Aurora and Edith in Edmonton. . . . Pallbearers were Russell Kennedy, Levi La France, Reel La France, Joe Tondy, Bill Laverne and Jack Blument. Interment was made in the Wainwright Roman Catholic cemetery.

W. A. Campbell, regional director of the War Time Prices and Trade Board, addressed members of the board of Trade here at the regular meeting. The need of price and trade control and the methods by which the board was achieving results were points put forward by the speaker. The board will meet again June 8.

Drinking Water Is Discovered In McLennan Area

McLENNAN—A sample of water, obtained from the well dug on the site where the Bishop's Palace is being built, was tested at the University of Alberta and found to be good drinking water.

This is the first good drinking water to be discovered in or around McLennan and newspapers have been getting their water by railroad for several years.

Work Committee Has Busy Time

ROSALIND—With eight sewing machines in operation, members of the Red Cross Work committee are afternoons recently made three quilts, 71 diapers and two pairs of pyjamas. Pieced quilt tops were donated by Mrs. L. Pierce and Miss Winkle Pierce and Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. H. Ashley placed one quilt top.

It could be brought in the first load of salvage during the current Red Cross salvage campaign. . . . The W.A. and W.M.S. will meet May 21 at the home of Mrs. R. Ashley. Modern Tailors Firm In New Store

This is the new home of Modern Tailors. Shown above is the entrance, featuring a compact neon sign hanging in front of the latest feature in shop frontage display, namely, white lettering on a vitrolite background. Further effectiveness of the arrangement is brought out in the use of vitrolite along the display window bases and sides. The length and shape of the terrazzo offers ample room for window shoppers and the large display area behind the windows provides for attractive displays. In the lower panel, one gets a clear view of the modern interior. Every article of clothing has its own place and is so arranged that a customer can readily select his choice. Featuring furnishings of the latest type, and display compartments second to none among tailor shops in the West, the new shop provides most pleasant surroundings for the prospective purchaser. All wall display panelling is painted cream and trimmed with silver and red. Every type of men's clothing has a specially constructed display compartment. A spacious hat rack that provides room for displaying 100 hats is an outstanding feature. A specially built display counter for ties, socks and hankies looks exceptionally smart. Cloth samples drawn taut in narrow strips across specially constructed forms give the customer excellent opportunity to select the type of material he would like in his garment. The interior is 93 feet long over all, with the actual shop about 70 feet in length.

Premises Expanded More Than Three Times In Eight Years' Business

Expansion of premises to more than three times the original size in the short space of eight years is the record of Modern Tailors, which firm is celebrating this season the official opening of the new store.

Backed by 25 years of expert and courteous service in the haberdashery business, the manager, Peter Swist, is prepared to handle the increasing volume of business at his new location, with even greater facility and variety of stocks than in the past.

Mr. Swist spent 17 years in the trade in Edmonton and other western cities before embarking upon his own business venture eight years ago.

Mr. Swist recently returned from Eastern Canada with the news that it will only be a matter of several months, possibly six, that double-breasted suits will be a thing of the past.

In their place will be the increasingly popular Victory suit featuring cuffs, trousers and a single-breasted lounge model coat.

He opened the Modern Tailors business at a location three doors west of the present site.

Within the brief span of eight years, the volume of business increased to such an extent that it was found necessary to find more commodious quarters.

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

The present site is conveniently located at the street car and bus stopping point at the end of 97 street on Jasper Avenue.

The vitrolite front and large modern display windows are a source of pride to the proprietor, and a feature that places Modern Tailors in the van among leading city haberdasheries.

A tile terrazzo, shaped and decorated in latest design, leads the customer to the new store.

Keen Young Air Force Crews Guarding Pacific Coast

1. Canada's youthful adventurers of the clouds ride sky-wagons into battle. Here are four young members of a reconnaissance bomber squadron, stationed on Canada's Pacific coast. From the left, they are Sgt. S. E. Coffey, 22, Victoria, B.C.; PO. H. L. Bray, Blyth, Ont., 20; Flt. Sgt. R. B. Aldus, Ottawa, 21; and Flt. Sgt. L. W. Manuel, 25, Charlottetown, P.E.I. 2. Two officers of the unit, dressed for a jaunt into the blue. Left, Flt. Lt. J. K. MacDonald, Antigonish, Que., and Sqdn. Ldr. C. A. Willis, Sherbrooke, Que. They're wearing "Mae Wests," R. C. A. F. slang for life preservers which are always worn on flight over water. 3. Handle with care—these are anti-submarine bombs, and they are treated with hearty respect. Note the rubber tires on the dolly on which the bomb is resting. One very good reason why Canada's civilian motorists can't buy tires—there are more important uses for rubber these days. 4. Testing a power-driven turret is a job for Sgt. R. J. Bowes, armorer. This is one of the devices that made Hitler's Luftwaffe run for home in the Battle of Britain. 5. As soon as a pursuit ship is down after a speedy trip, a tank truck is on hand to reload her fuel tanks. The plane is in a fighter squadron stationed at the coast. 6. Guardians of the coast are these bombers, drawn up for inspection after a flight over the sea-lanes of B. C.'s coast. The bombers can be fitted with fighter armament, which makes them more than a match for a twin-engined pursuit plane. 7. Cpl. K. M. Allard of Montreal, with a necklace of machine gun bullets. These belts spit death at any enemy who finds himself in the gun-sights of the R. C. A. F.

The Red Cross Appeals For $9,000,000 To Help Suffering People Like These

The Canadian Red Cross is campaigning to raise $9,000,000 for its work. This is important work because it involves thousands of suffering people. It involves such people as 80,000 prisoners of war, who depend upon weekly parcels from the Canadian Red Cross. It involves uncounted thousands of persons in hospitals in Britain who are victims of Nazi air raids. Children, soldiers, sailors and airmen—the people in the front line of the battle of freedom are the victims of that battle. They need your help. One dollar from every person in Canada would do the trick. You can't fail them.

We're ENLISTING for the DURATION in the HOME FRONT

CLEAN-UP PAINT-UP FIX-UP

House Shortage Is Big Problem In Dominion

Canada's housing shortage, particularly evident in districts where war industries have increased the demand for accommodation, is presenting a serious problem to the average citizen as well as to the government authorities. Because the public is not fully aware of what should be done, the problem is likely to become more and more serious. Facts about the situation and some remedies that the public may adopt, follow.

1.—There is a serious housing shortage in most Canadian communities. In larger centres there is actual difficulty in securing any acceptable accommodation.

2.—Housing for a number of workers in war industries is being provided by Wartime Housing Ltd., a government company. These houses can be built only in districts where expanded or new war industries create an entirely new problem. They cannot be built, for instance, in cities like Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver where war workers make up only a comparatively small section of the population.

3.—Under the National Housing Act loans may be secured for homes costing less than $5,000. There is some possibility, however, that this act may be discontinued through municipal officials and housing experts have urged the government to keep the act in force.

THREE WAYS
4.—Canadian citizens may now help relieve the housing shortage in three ways: first, by renovating existing properties and increasing living accommodations; second, by adding insulation to summer cottages to make them usable year-round; and third, by building low-cost homes under the act.

5.—In the building field, the most timely there are: (a) the supply of plumbing, heating and building materials; (b) the availability of labour; (c) the availability of land. There are no priorities on lumber, insulation, asphalt, shingle roofing or asphalt tile flooring, which are not immediately required for war production.

6.—The public policy therefore should be to protect and conservation of present properties, increase of living space through renovation and repair, new construction of small homes where required but elimination of needless expense or building.

customer along the display window joined the others. On each side of the entrance is a "bay" display window, the latter feature of modern outside showing.

TREAT FOR EYES

Inside, the customer's eye is greeted with a most modern arrangement of display devices. A specially constructed counter and rack arranged with artistically shaped compartments for socks, ties and handkerchiefs, is seen to the right.

Built into the wall alongside and arranged in a glass counter immediately in front, is the shirt and undershirt department, where ordinary shirts, sport shirts, pyjamas and undershirts are prominently displayed.

Balanced to the right wall is lined with the latest development in displaying samples of suit, side along the wall, dozens of styles of coats are laid out vertically, side by side.

MIRRORED ENTRANCE

Half way along the length of the wall of samples is a mirrored entrance to the dressing room.

Immediately opposite the door is a three cornered booth equipped with regular mirrors for those wishing to slip on a coat or vest for a trial fitting.

Lined along the left wall is a rack with a capacity for 100 hats, and further down the floor length is a cooly arranged horizontal "hook" for ready-to-wear suits.

Along the centre of the inside length of the wall, arranged parallel with the wall, is a counter decked with place articles and followed by a long rack for top coats.

At one side is the customer's counter and further down in the same line is a small counter for trial suits.

Arranged parallel with the wall along the ceiling are several exclusive large fluorescent lights, each one equipped with three tubes. These lights have proven bene-

The Tudor

A five roomed home, each room of generous size, efficiently ventilated and splendidly equipped. The porch adjoining the living room may be enclosed as a sixth room or be left open as suggested in these plans, with slate flooring. Both exterior and interior of this home provide beauty and comfort obtainable for very modest cost.

Boy Scouts Association Fills Useful Role In Community Life

Pledged to "let loose on all the home front, brotherly love, understanding, tolerance and peace," the Boy Scouts Association now has Canadian membership totaling 91,819.

All display walls are constructed from veneer and painted in cream, trimmed with silver and chrome. All corners of counters and display walls are rounded to give the interior an appearance of "stream-lined" beauty.

Chrome furniture with red leather upholstery is conveniently placed, gives customers ample opportunity to make their shopping at the Modern Tailors both pleasant and comfortable.

Assisting Mr. Swift is an expert tailor who attends to the tailoring end of the business, and a young and courteous clerk.

Mr. Swift is regarded as one of the city's leading tailors, and provides for his customers finished jobs that are backed by years of experience on his part, and by a money-back guarantee.

B.V.D. shirts, shorts and other men's clothing are featured among the lighter supplies, while in suit department Modern Tailors carries several of the nation's leading lines for custom tailoring, or made-to-measure orders.

In co-operation with Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Modern Tailors are especially concerned with placing before the buying public the latest in Victory suits.

Confident in apparent general public opinion, Mr. Swift explains that the lone distinguishing feature between a Victory suit and suits sold prior to this month is the absence of trouser cuffs. Other restrictions and eliminations affected are not readily noticeable, he said.

Mr. Swift briefly summarized his new store's policy in the following words:

"In taking these new quarters, we shall be in a better position than ever to give prompt, efficient service to our many patrons. In anticipation of an increased volume of business our prices are now lower than ever."

Strikes Gas

CALGARY, May 16—(CP)—Drilling a well for water within the town limits of Staveland, R. R. Dyer of Innisfail struck gas this week.

Immediately opposite the door is a three cornered booth equipped with regular mirrors for those wishing to slip on a coat or vest for a trial fitting.

Lined along the left wall is a rack with a capacity for 100 hats, and further down the floor length is a cooly arranged horizontal "hook" for ready-to-wear suits.

Clean-Up For Victory Campaign Gets Under Way Next Monday

"Clean up for Victory" is the slogan behind which members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, assisted by women's forces and the city engineer's department are rallying Edmontonians toward a thorough clean-up of the city next week.

The clean-up drive this year bears a special significance in that arrangements are under way to have the salvagable materials saved for war purposes. With this in mind the Junior Chamber of Commerce clean-up campaign committee has received the co-operation of the salvage campaign committee and has again been promised the fullest co-operation from the city engineer's department.

The week is rightly called the annual "city beautification week," as in the process of cleaning up their lawns, back yards, attics and basements, residents take the opportunity to decide to follow up this preliminary work with the odd paint job around the home.

The week will also mark the wind-up of the spring gardening season at many homes. Many other citizens will take advantage of the opportunity to complete their job of tree planting that they have been putting off from time to time.

FLEET OF TRUCKS
The city engineer's department has on hand a special fleet of trucks for the purpose.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By FLIGHT-LIEUT. J. A. FORBES Protestant Chaplain No. 3 Manning Depot, R.C.A.F., Edmonton.

The Man With a Hope

"For we are saved by Hope"

THIS is the verdict of experience. Hope is one of the greatest factors in the stock market. It saves from despair all who are hard pressed by circumstances beyond their control, anchors men to moral standards, inspires the young in the struggle for a place in the world and sustains the old when the journey is nearly over. Only hope can preserve the morale and sanity of occupied Europe, of British and American captives at Hong Kong or on the Bataan peninsula.

Often, however, people start out with hope and lose it and find themselves weaker than at first. Often they have been deceived by false hope, and are discouraged and disillusioned. How can we secure saving hope? What is wrong with the hope that disappears or deceives? It is not really the hope of the Gospel. It is only a way of escaping, an attitude dependent upon favorable circumstances. The hope of the Gospel is the way of living and it is based on man's daily experience of God's saving power.

There is a great lesson in the study of two paintings by Jesus, Francis Millet. Edwin Landseman looked at "The Man with the Hoe" and saw in it a man who had risen in the image of God and now was warped by the everyday struggle with toil and poverty, a man without prospects and without hope.

"Bowed by the weight of centuries, he leans upon his hoe, and gazes on the ground. The emptiness of ages in his face. Who made him dead to rapine and despair, A thing that grieves not and that never hopes."

"An angel has many similar features. It is also a scene of toil and the man and woman are surrounded with the implements of labour. But it is more than that. Across the level landscape you can see the Church spire rising above the lowly roofs of the village. It is evening and the Angel has come to pray. He stands with his hands folded, his hands bowed before the burden of the day. But his eyes above. The man must also tell from sun to sun with a hope. It is in the warp and woof of his life, acquired in the arena where "Industrious" workers patience, and patience, experience, and experience, hope."

"Christ In You The Hope Of Glory"

By Dorothy C. Wagner

Do you long for fame and glory? Mid the weary round of days? Listen to a wonderful story: The redeemed one's hymn of praise:

Christ, the very King eternal, In whom all things were made, He who made the skies apparel, He who made the smallest cells,

He who upholds all creation, By the power of His word, He who lightens every nation, Which will own Him as its Lord.

He whom heaven itself contains not In His might and majesty, By His blessed Holy Spirit, Dwells, praise God, He dwells in me

How can life be drab and dreary? Christ, the very King eternal, In whom all things were made, He who made the skies apparel, He who made the smallest cells,

He who upholds all creation, By the power of His word, He who lightens every nation, Which will own Him as its Lord.

He whom heaven itself contains not In His might and majesty, By His blessed Holy Spirit, Dwells, praise God, He dwells in me

How can life be drab and dreary? Christ, the very King eternal, In whom all things were made, He who made the skies apparel, He who made the smallest cells,

THE RAILWAY AND THE WAR . . . By Thurston Topham

Many Canadian Railway Shops are now manufacturing war munitions. Thousands of railway mechanics are engaged in this task.

A Speed Record—Production was started 55 weeks after the first aid was turned for the plan of National Railway Plants in Montreal, covered by the Canadian National Railways which is turning out naval guns and field artillery gun-carriages.

War Materials are also made at C.N.R. Shops at Moncton, N.B., Stratford, Ontario, Transcona and Fort Rouge (Winnipeg), Man., and Prince Rupert, B.C.

Some parts of Navy Gun turrets are machined to 2-10,000ths of an inch—one.

Parts are checked with an electrically-controlled super micrometer which measures to 1-100,000ths of an inch.

Stirring Epics Of Sea War To Be Related By Noted Dutch Speaker

A stirring, tense, enlivening, packed story of the perils that confront the men of the merchant marine, and the fertile and splendid courage with which war merchant seamen meet these perils will be told by Dr. Benedictus H. Nijel, noted Dutch speaker, in an address on Tuesday evening next at the McDougall Church. The meeting is being held under the sponsorship of the Navy League of Canada, and will be presided over by Frank Pike.

Dr. Nijel can speak from first hand knowledge on this subject. For many voyages, since his escape from Holland, he has braved the dangers of submarine-infested waters while serving as ship's doctor on a British merchant ship.

He has seen the apprehensive watchfulness of ships' company, waiting for U-boats to strike, turn to inconceivable joyfulness, at the hour of combat comes and all crew members turn with burning courage to meet the enemy—to destroy him or be destroyed.

He will tell of the terrible trials of the Dutch people under Nazi rule, of their unflinching courage and unquenchable hatred of the foul traitors who devastated their country and made its people slaves.

Stories of the unending campaign of passive resistance of German rule, with its humor and horror, will be detailed by him in his lecture. Again he can speak at first hand on this subject as he was in Holland for a considerable time after the German occupation.

He escaped from the country only a few hours before the Nazis came to arrest him. In an open 18 foot outboard boat, Dr. Nijel and his two sons left Holland and succeeded in crossing the storm-tossed waters of the North Sea to sanctuary in Britain.

On arrival there he immediately gave up his services to the British nation, while his two sons joined up with the armed forces of Britain, one with the R.A.F., the second with a Dutch battalion being formed in England. The boy made the supreme sacrifice, being killed in an air raid over Germany.

TOURING CANADA Dr. Nijel is making a tour of Canada on behalf of the Netherlands and Allied cause. He was recently decorated for services to his country by Queen Wilhelmina.

During his stay in Edmonton he will address a joint luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club and Oryx at the Macdonald Hotel.

Proceeds of the meeting at the Macdonald Hotel will be devoted to providing comforts for men of the merchant marine and for Sea Gidets' work.

Local Man's Play To Be Presented

"One Leaf From a Maple" a radio play written by J. Douglas Nixon.

10021 123 street will be presented by the CBC Tuesday, May 26, at 10 p.m. It will be carried by CPBN.

The play, written in "panoramic" style, is based on the theme that Canada is not a country or a pile of land, but a spirit which lives in every Canadian wherever he may happen to be. Included in the play are 14 characters who are Canadian miners, trappers, lumbermen, businessmen, clerks, waitresses, pilots, overseas and farmers.

Direction of the play will be by Andrew Allen, and taking part will be a number of Vancouver actors with whom Mr. Nixon worked when he was with a Vancouver radio station.

The author is a former resident of Victoria and attended the University of British Columbia. He is now a continually writer with an Edmonton radio station. He has submitted several other plays to the CBC.

Man In Her Heart

By Rob Eden

ANNE LAURIE is operating a four-horse team for the first time in her life. She is driving a team of four horses, a pair of bays and a pair of blacks, in a harness race. She is driving a team of four horses, a pair of bays and a pair of blacks, in a harness race. She is driving a team of four horses, a pair of bays and a pair of blacks, in a harness race.

A lot of people had seen Pat Barrow hint in the paper that there must be something wrong with the horse or it never would be dropped down from stake races to the level of the horse. He had decided it just a clever trick on the part of the Anne Laurie stable. He had a crip in the stable for $3000.

Moore Jade was so easily that it was laughable but there was no thrill in it for Anne. Even though the cleared nearly a thousand dollars on the horse. All her efforts to keep the stable going and take a shot at the $5000 purse had been in vain.

CHAPTER XXII
UNTIL the last minute, Anne hoped that Doc would reappear, that Moon Jade would suddenly get sick or some miracle would save the day for her, but it was a futile hope.

She decided to salvage as much as she could from the misfortune, and bet the $800 purse she had won on Countess Q on her horse, counting herself lucky to get a little better than even money.

Hold Everything

"You scouting detail does not include burlesque shows, Private Gloom!"

"What's that?" Anne asked. "Where did you get him? How'd it happen that he's been stabled here?"

Swift Growth of Navy In Wartime Attracts Youth to Fighting Service Royal Canadian Naval College Opens Doors to First Class in October

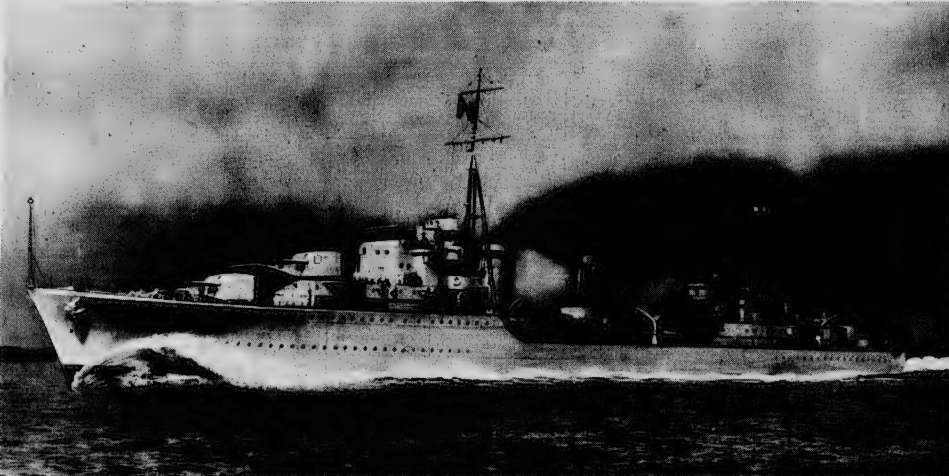

High on the bridge of a destroyer the captain watches a signalman send a message to another ship in the anchorage. Officers will be trained at Royal Canadian Naval College, opening in October for boys 16 to 17 years and 9 months with jr. matriculation.

A naval whaler, equally handy under sail or on, is shown in the lagoon on the Naval College grounds at Esquimalt. Main building appears in background, a mile from shore.

An officer on the upper bridge of a destroyer is studying deflection measurements for accurate firing of a torpedo. Applications from qualified young men seeking careers in the navy will be accepted by the Secretary of the Naval Board, Ottawa, up to May 31.

This Tribal Class destroyer, with double the offensive power of present destroyers, is one of the ships which will be manned by men trained at the new Naval College at Esquimalt, B.C. The Tribal type is coming into delivery this year, with many building

Students at the new college must familiarize themselves with modern weapons. This officer is assembling the tail of a 21-inch torpedo, which travels at 40 miles per hour.

Every officer aboard a Canadian destroyer is a specialist in gunnery, torpedoes or navigation. In foreground at right of this group in the wardroom of the Saguenay is Lieut. Philip E. Haddon, then captain of the ship, now executive officer of the college.

for the future. Their greatest advance in design is twin mounting of main armament, 4.7-inch guns hurling a double weight of broadside. Applicants for appointment to the new college will be selected on the basis of examination standings and an interview.

Then, too, there is the matter of training. "It is more thorough," the admiral says, "and lasts longer. A mature officer in the British Navy has vast technical training behind him—years of work in a closely-knit organization."

Here is what Vice-Admiral Nelles, Chief of Canada's Naval Staff, says of that distinction:

"They are a short-term navy and we are a long-term navy."

"Those hundreds of years of British naval tradition are paying us good, solid dividends now."

"The German Navy, and the Italian Navy for that matter, lack the tradition, the length of service and the sailor's instinct. All the mechanical skill in the world isn't going to save them."

In October Canada opens a new Naval College where the British tradition of the sea and the high standards of training will be maintained. Its commanding officer will be Commander John M. Grant, R.C.N. His executive officer will be Lieut. Philip E. Haddon, who has been captain of the destroyer Saguenay. Director of studies will be Lieut.-Commander Kenneth Ketchum, former headmaster of St. Andrew's College.

Entrance requirements will be high. The first 50 of these future naval officers joining for the two years' course must be between the ages of 16 years and 17 years and nine months on July 1, with a junior matriculation in mathematics, physics or chemistry, history, English and another modern language.

For this year only, an additional 50 will be entered for a one-year course. Because the training period is shorter these will have to present higher credentials. They must have senior matriculation in the same subjects and be between the ages of 17 years and 18 years and nine months on July 1. To select the first 100 entrants to the new Naval College a Senior Naval Officers Board will interview candidates personally.

Young officers in training receive instruction in layout of modern warships. The model is a heavy cruiser. The navy will select 100 career men this year for special courses. Information on the new Naval College may be obtained from Naval Secretary, Ottawa.

Vichy's Atlantic Outposts

The French government at Vichy has lost Madagascar, a strategic colony dominating vital Indian Ocean trade routes, but it still clings to four key Atlantic possessions, each poised at a crossroads where Allied interests run equally high.

Dakar, administrative centre of French West Africa, has tremendous importance because of position. Not only is it an overnight bomber hop from South America but it could serve as a perfect haven for submarines of a belligerent seeking to control shipping past the African bulge.

Martinique, situated at the edge of the Caribbean directly across from Dakar, has, at Fort-de-France, one of the best harbours in all the West Indies. Here, too, is the $400,000 in gold, held in safety for Vichy.

Geography likewise accords to French Guiana and the island of Guadeloupe their importance in the Caribbean. Flanking Allied bases in Surinam and British Guiana as well as the Panama Canal, the former, in unfriendly hands, could seriously menace American operations. Guadeloupe, like Martinique, is a potential dynamite when one thinks of its convenience to the enemy as a base.

Oil Shipment To West Provinces To Be Continued

OTTAWA, May 16.—(CP)—Oil shipments from western Canada to the west are continuing, and there is no intention at this time to stop the westward flow. It was said yesterday by a munitions and supply department spokesman.

A report from western Canada that Turner Valley will be called upon to supply virtually all the shipments from western Canada to the west was termed "unjustified in view of the actual situation."

WELSH ARE RACE IN THEMSELVES MOTION STATES

MONTREAL, May 16.—(AP)—

The fact that the Welsh are a race in themselves must never be forgotten, according to a sober and carefully worded motion passed by the National Council of the Welsh in Montreal.

In a recent provincial survey of racial groups in Quebec, the Men of Harlech were inadvertently passed up without classification.

The school board solemnly noted with regret the deletion of the Welsh, and respectfully requested the provincial authorities to rectify the unfortunate omission in any way possible.

Wheat Flour Bags Reduced In Size To Save Burlap

OTTAWA, May 16.—(CP)—A reduction from 11 to four in the size of bags in which wheat flour may be sold was announced yesterday by J. J. Page, administrator of flour and cereal products for the War-time Prices and Trade Board.

The permitted sizes are even, 24, 40 and 48 pound capacities.

Provision is made in the order for the retailer to continue to use bulk flour for sale in new containers in less than seven-pound quantities if they were already doing so prior to May 13, effective date of the order.

The board said the new ruling was aimed at a means of conserving burlap, wire, cotton, straw and cast-iron paper.

Beaverbrook Paper Sees U.S. Leader Of United Nations

LONDON, May 16.—(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook's daily Express said editorially today that it is not surprising that "America is assuming the leadership of the United Nations."

The newspaper, whose views were recently called for the opening of a second front in Europe, said that increased production goals of the United States and a growing demand for raw materials in the United States are factors that "may be of much consequence in changing the course of conduct of the war."
